Institutions Not Played in Recent Years Appear on Blue and Gray's Schedule.

NINE GAMES BOOKED WITH STRONG TEAMS

Navy, W. Va. Wesleyan, Medical College and Holy Cross Will Be Played in 1913.

BY H. C. BYRD.

Four institutions that have not been played by a Georgetown foot ball team in several years appear on the schedule of the local university for next fall. They are the Wesleyan College of West Virginia, the Medical College of Virginia, Navy and Holy Cross. Holy Cross and the Navy have not appeared on a Blue and Gray schedule in quite a while, and the Medical College and West Virginia Wesleyan have places for the first time. According to official announcement, Georgetown will open its schedule September 27. The first team to appear on the list of games is the Seamen Gunners. The sailors' eleven, which is Washington organization, was played two years ago, but not last fall. The last time the two teams met the score was 36 to 0 in favor of the Hilltoppers. Randolph-Macon is the first college team that will be seen on the local field. The Ashland eleven will come here October 4. The first big game is with the Navy. The Sailors will be played October 11 at Annapolis. Georgetown figures that it will have a chance to get away with the Midshipmen that early in the season, as it will probably have had a longer siege of training, and will be in better conditions are seasonable. It might be mentioned that "Sid" Lodge, who played a lot of ball around here and who has made good in professional ranks, is in charge of the youngsters and is doing some mighty good work with them.

The Western High infield is unquestionably the strongest in the high schools this season. The Red and White inner works are stronger defensively and offensively than any of the other combinations. There is hardly another shortstop in the high schools who is the equal of Stern, and certainly no other third baseman can play as well as can Howard in that position. Bethel, Rover and B. Howard are all above the average, and have been showing well. Capt. Howard and Stern, though, give the infield its real strength, both being clever fielders, base sunners and hitters.

For the sone that appears very well balanced. past four seasons Technical or Central has been conceded the championship before the start of the schedule although Western made a strong fight two successive years for the honor. This spring conditions are different. Now it is Business and Western, which seem to have the edge on the nines representing the other schools, with Central or Technical in the position to supply the Black Knight, if there is to be one.

Or course, there are many angles to a ball game, or a series of ball games, and it would be impossible to say which team will win the championship. One might as well attempt to foretell the exact time of the end of all things, judging by the signs of the times. To sum up the general outlook briefly, though, it appears that Business and Western stand very nearly an even chance, with the possibility that either Technical or Central will be a dangerous factor.
